"According to the Encyclopedia Britannica, —Information is the amount of the data after data compression. "According to the Whitley's Law Dictionary, it defines "information" as a "difference that makes a difference". "According to the Black's Law Dictionary, information only provides an answer to a posed question. Whether the answer provides knowledge depends on the informed person. According to the Jovitt's Dictionary of English Law, Information is a phrase often used in legal pleadings (complaints and answers in a lawsuit), declarations under penalty of perjury, and affidavits under oath, in which the person making the statement or allegation qualifies it. In the French law, the term information is used to signify the act or instrument which contains the depositions of witnesses against the accused. "In general, information is raw data that has been verified to be accurate and timely, is specific and organized for a purpose, is presented within a context that gives it meaning and relevance, and which leads to increase in understanding and decrease in uncertainty. The value of information lies solely in its ability to affect a behavior, decision, or outcome. A piece of information is considered valueless if, after receiving it, things remain unchanged. All the citizens have a right to decide, either personally or by their representatives, as to necessity of the public contribution, to grant this freely, to know to what use fix the proportion, the mode of assessment and of collection and the duration of taxes. United Nations United Nations accepted Right to Information right from its beginning in 1946. Freedom of information is an integral part of the fundamental right of freedom of expression, as recognized by resolution 59 of the UN General Assembly adopted in 1946. Universal Declaration of Human Rights, 1948 Article 19 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights of 1948, states that, —Everyone has the right to freedom of opinion and expression; this right includes freedom to hold opinions without interference and to seek, receive and impart information and ideas through any media and regardless of frontiers. International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, 1968 The International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR) is a multilateral treaty adopted by the United Nations General Assembly on December 16, 1966, and in force from March 23, 1976. Article 19 of the Covenant states as following:- (1) Everyone shall have the right to hold opinions without interference; (2) Everyone shall have the right to freedom of expression, this right shall include freedom to seek, receive and impart information and ideas of all kinds, regardless of frontiers, either orally, in writing or in print, in the form of art or through any other media of his choice. The Commonwealth The Commonwealth- association of 54 countries- affirmed the existence of RTI by emphasizing the participation of people in the government processes. The law ministers of the Commonwealth at their meeting held in Barbados in year 1980, stated that public participation in the democratic and government process would be most meaningful when citizens had adequate access to official information. Rio Declaration 1992 Principle 10 of the Rio Declaration on Environment and Development, 1992 first recognized the fact that access to information on the environment, including information held by public authorities, is the key to sustainable development and effective public participation in environmental governance The Aarhus Convention (named after the Danish city where it was adopted) recognizes access to information as a part of the right to live in a healthy environment rather than as a freestanding right. The Aarhus Convention and Rights to Information Article 9(1) of the Aarhus Convention on Human and Peoples' Rights, explicitly recognizes the right of people to seek and receive information and says that —Every individual shall have the right to receive information. Freedom of information is an integral part of the fundamental right of freedom of expression, as recognized by resolution 59 of the UN General Assembly adopted in 1946. Universal Declaration of Human Rights, 1948 Article 19 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights of 1948, states that, —Everyone has the right to freedom of opinion and expression; this right includes freedom to hold opinions without interference and to seek, receive and impart information and ideas through any media and regardless of frontiers. International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, 1968 The International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR) is a multilateral treaty adopted by the United Nations General Assembly on December 16, 1966, and in force from March 23, 1976. Article 19 of the Covenant states as following:- (1) Everyone shall have the right to hold opinions without interference; (2) Everyone shall have the right to freedom of expression, this right shall include freedom to seek, receive and impart information and ideas of all kinds, regardless of frontiers, either orally, in writing or in print, in the form of art or through any other media of his choice. The Commonwealth The Commonwealth- association of 54 countries- affirmed the existence of RTI by emphasizing the participation of people in the government processes. The law ministers of the Commonwealth at their meeting held in Barbados in year 1980 stated that public participation in the democratic and government process would be most meaningful when citizens had adequate access to official information. Rio Declaration 1992 Principle 10 of the Rio Declaration on Environment and Development, 1992 first recognized the fact that access to information on the environment, including information held by public authorities, is the key to sustainable development and effective public participation in environmental governance The Aarhus Convention (named after the Danish city where it was adopted) recognizes access to information as a part of the right to live in a healthy environment rather than as a freestanding right. The Aarhus Convention and Rights to Information Article 9(1) of the Aarhus Convention on Human and Peoples' Rights, explicitly recognizes the right of people to seek and receive information and says that —Every individual shall have the right to receive information. Essentials of a valid contract - Sec. 10 of the Indian Contract Act. For a contract to be called as a valid contract it is important that certain essentials are fulfilled. 1. Proper Offer and Acceptance with intention to create legal relationship - In order that an offer, after acceptance, can result in a valid contract, it is necessary that the offer should be made with an intention to create a legal relationship. (Balfour vs. Balfour) 2. Parties to contract should be competent - Age of majority, sound mind, not disqualified by law to enter into a contract. 3. Free Consent - consent of the parties must be genuine consent means agreed upon same thing in the same sense i.e. there should be consensus - ad - idem. There should not be force or threat to enter into a contract. 4. Lawful Consideration - Consideration must not be unlawful, immoral or opposed to the public policy. 5. Lawful object - The object of agreement should be lawful and legal. Two persons cannot enter into an agreement to do a criminal act. II. Differences between Contract and Agreement - All contracts are agreements whereas all agreements are not contracts.

Arbitration and its meaning Ancient and Medieval writing on environmental law Ancient and Medieval writings on environment law Non -interference of the Government According to this theory people can invest & do anything. Government had no control only revenue had to be paid to the Government. M.H. Devendrapa case reduces somewhat the harshness of the Balakotiah ruling.
418	10-05-2021	11:15:00 PM	Ms. Soyontika Gogai	B.Com LL.B. - IV	N.A.	N.A.	Criminal Law - I: Indian Penal Code	Balakotiah seemed to suggest that a government servant cannot exercise any freedom under Art. 19 and he can enjoy his freedom only if he gives up government service. But Devendrapa ruling permits some space to a government servant to enjoy his freedoms subject to proper functioning of the state. A balance has to be drawn between the interests of a government servant as a citizen and the interests of the state as an employer in promoting the efficiency of public service. It does not mean merely that life cannot be extinguished or taken away as, for example, by the imposition and execution of the death sentence, except according to procedure established by law. That is but one aspect of the right to life. 1360- Existence of factory system Employee tried to discuss each other for wages, timings. Working class formed a group & union and approached the employer. 1824 - BENTHAMINE COMMISSION This commission thoroughly studied to all these problems. According to this commission workers must be allowed to discuss or bargain with the employer. made certain recommendations to the Government - workmen as well as employer given freedom to make an agreement. Based on that in 1824 - All the earlier laws were allowed to associate. This legislation prohibited to some extent. Strikes were allowed.

Since British times, there have been many laws that prohibited implementation of right to information. Important laws that prohibited Right to Information in India is produced below: The Official Secrets Act, 1923: This law was the most important challenge in the history of RTI Act 2005 in India because it prohibited all public servants from disclosing any information to the public. Section 123 of the Indian Evidence Act 1872: No one shall be permitted to give any evidence derived from unpublished official records relating to any affairs of State, except with the permission of the officer at the head of the department concerned, who shall give or withhold such permission as he thinks fit. Oath by the Public Servant: Before joining duty, public servant swears that the information is a state secret. Rule 11 of The Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules, 1964: No Employee of the Secretariat shall, except in accordance with any general or special order of the Secretariat or in the performance of his duty, communicate to any person, directly or indirectly, any official document or any part thereof or information to any Employee of the Secretariat or any other person to whom he/she is not authorized to communicate such document or information. Rule 9 of The All India Services (Conduct) Rules, 1968: No member of the Service shall except in accordance with any general or special order of the Government or in the performance of his duty, communicate to any person, directly or indirectly, any official document or part thereof or information to any Government servant or any other person to whom he is not authorized to communicate such document or information. Archives Policy Resolution of 22 December 1972: States that all documents are classified for 30 years and thereafter only non-confidential material is available to a restricted range of people. Even unclassified material cannot be communicated to anyone outside the government without permission.

Since British times, there have been many laws that prohibited implementation of right to information. Important laws that prohibited Right to Information in India is produced below: The Official Secrets Act, 1923: This law was the most important challenge in the history of RTI Act 2005 in India because it prohibited all public servants from disclosing any information to the public. Section 123 of the Indian Evidence Act 1872: No one shall be permitted to give any evidence derived from unpublished official records relating to any affairs of State, except with the permission of the officer at the head of the department concerned, who shall give or withhold such permission as he thinks fit. Oath by the Public Servant: Before joining duty, public servant swears that the information is a state secret. Rule 11 of The Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules, 1964: No Employee of the Secretariat shall, except in accordance with any general or special order of the Secretariat or in the performance in good faith of the duties assigned to him/her, communicate, directly or indirectly, any official document or any part thereof or information to any Employee of the Secretariat or any other person to whom he/she is not authorized to communicate such document or information. Rule 9 of The All India Services (Conduct) Rules, 1968: No member of the Service shall except in accordance with any general or special order of the Government or in the performance in good faith of duties assigned to him, communicate directly or indirectly any official document or part thereof or information to any Government servant or any other person to whom he is not authorized to communicate such document or information. Archives Policy Resolution of 22 December 1972: States that all documents are classified for 30 years and thereafter only non-confidential material is available to a restricted range of people. Even unclassified material cannot be communicated to anyone outside the government without permission.

							1. An offer should be distinguished from an invitation to offer or treat. Sometimes a person may not offer to sell his good, but makes some statements or gives some information with a view to inviting others to make offers on that basis. Display of goods either in a show-window or inside the shop and such goods bear price tags, would not amount to an offer to sell the goods at prices mentioned on the price tags. It would be mere invitation to offer. Inviting persons to an auction, where goods to be auctioned are displayed, is not an offer for sale of goods. The offer is made by the intending buyers in the form of bid. Such an offer(bid), when accepted by the fall of hammer in some other customary way, will result in a contract. 2. A brainstorming session was also conducted to test if the students were clear with the concepts.	1. An offer should be distinguished from an invitation to offer or treat. The National Advisory Council (NAC) was set up to oversee implementation of the Government's Common Minimum Programme under the chairmanship of soniagandhi Since its inception, the NAC has taken a close interest in Right to Information. Meanwhile, a public interest litigation case was pursued by Advocate Prashant Shushan on behalf of the National Campaign on People's Right to Information (NCPRI) and Centre for Public Interest Litigation since 2002, tried to compel the Government to notify an effective FOI Act, 2002. Immediately. 2004: NCPRI formulated amendments to Freedom of Information Act, 2002 and forwarded to the NAC. NAC endorsed with minor changes and recommended to the Government (Prime Minister). There was reluctance (difference of opinion) among politicians and bureaucrats in adopting these changes. There was an attempt made to re-notify the earlier Freedom of Information Act; this move faced widespread protests by citizens and civil society. 2004: Finally, on 23rd December 2004, UPA Government tabled the RTI Bill 2004, applicable only to the Union Government. The civil society was not happy with this. Most of the information required by the common man was from state governments. The bill did not serve the purpose of the common man. Some members of the NAC too were unhappy with this. After heavy lobbying by NCPRI and other organizations the Right to Information Act, 2005 was passed. Meaning - When the person to whom the proposal is made signifies his assent thereto, the proposal is said to be accepted. A proposal, when accepted, becomes a promise. 2. Essentials of a valid acceptance - i) Acceptance should be communicated by the offeree to the offeror. ii) Acceptance should be absolute and unqualified. iii) Acceptance should be made in some usual and reasonable manner, unless the proposal prescribes the manner of acceptance. iv) Acceptance should be made while the offer is still subsisting. 3. Communication of Acceptance - i) Acceptance by external manifestation or overt act ii) Communication to offeror himself iii) Communication by acceptor himself iv) Communication to the wrong person v) When communication not necessary Acceptance - Meaning, Definition, Essential and Revocation 1. Meaning - When the person to whom the proposal is made signifies his assent thereto, the proposal is said to be accepted. A proposal, when accepted, becomes a promise. 2. Essentials of a valid acceptance - i) Acceptance should be communicated by the offeree to the offeror. ii) Acceptance should be absolute and unqualified. iii) Acceptance should be made in some usual and reasonable manner, unless the proposal prescribes the manner of acceptance. iv) Acceptance should be made while the offer is still subsisting. 3. Communication of Acceptance - i) Acceptance by external manifestation or overt act ii) Communication to offeror himself iii) Communication by acceptor himself iv) Communication to the wrong person v) When communication not necessary Explanation to Section 34 under IPC. 1. When a criminal act is done by several persons in furtherance of the common intention of all, each of such persons is liable for that act in the same manner as if it were done by him alone. 2. It deals with the doing of separate acts, similar or adverse by several persons, if all are done in furtherance of common intention. In such situation, each person is liable for the result of that as if he had done that act himself. 3. Essential ingredients of the section - i) Criminal act is done by several persons; ii) Such act is done in furtherance of the common intention of all; and iii) Each of such persons is liable for that act in the same manner as if it were done by him alone. 4. Participation of several persons in some action with the common intention of committing a crime is an essential ingredient; once such participation is established, section 34 is at once attracted. 5. The words 'in furtherance of common intention' has been defined by the Supreme Court as some kind of aid or assistance proceeding an effect in future and that any act may be regarded as done in furtherance of the ultimate felony if it is a step intentionally taken for the purpose of effecting the felony. 861	18-05-2021	12:30:00 PM	Dr. Veerabhadralah C	LL.B. - IV	B.Com LL.B. - VIII	LL.B. - IV	Banking law	1. When communication not necessary - In certain cases communication of acceptance is not necessary. The offeror may prescribe a particular mode of acceptance, then all that the acceptor has to do is to follow that mode. Then, there may be an offer which impliedly indicates that acting on its terms will be sufficient acceptance.
862	18-05-2021	10:15:00 AM	Ms. Soyontika Gogai	BA LL.B. - IV - B	N.A.	N.A.	Contract - I	2. Mode of Communication - Acceptance has to be made in the manner prescribed or indicated by the offeror. An acceptance given in any other manner may not be effective, particularly where the offeror clearly insists that the acceptance shall be made in the prescribed manner. Sec.7(2) of the Indian Contract Act was explained. The section no doubt requires that acceptance should be made in the manner prescribed in the proposal. But a departure from that manner does not of itself invalidate the acceptance. 3. Communication when complete - Sec.4 provides as follows: "The communication of an acceptance is complete, as against the proposer, when it is put in a course of transmission to him, so as to be out of the power of the acceptor; as against the acceptor, when it comes to the knowledge of the proposer."
